FINANCIAL MAN BELIEVES SUGAR STOCKS TOO LOW

Charles Remington, financial editor of the San Francisco Chronicle, does not think prices of Hawaiian sugar stocks are up to the mark that the prices of sugar should set. In the Chronicle of April 3 he says:

The present prices of Hawaiian sugar stocks show very unequal gains over a year ago, which seems rather strange in view of the fact that all the gains may be attributed solely to the advance in the price of the commodity, an advance that affects all plantations alike. Taking the closing quotations of the month of March, 1914, and March, 1915, Hawaiian Commercial and Sugar shows an advance of 13 points or 59.5 per cent; Hawaiian Sugar, 14.12 points or 69.9 per cent; Honokaa, 2.18 points or 105 per cent; Hutchinson, 3.12 points or 28 per cent; Onomea, 16 points or 100 per cent; and Paauhau, 7.12 points or 60 per cent.

"The closing quotations on March 31 of the two years follow:
Stocks. 1914 1915
Hawaiian C. & S. .... b 21 1/2 b 34 1/2
Hawaiian Sugar .... b 20 3/4 b 35 1/4
Honokaa .... b 2 1/2 b 5 1/4
Hutchinson .... b 12 1/2 b 16
Onomea .... b 16 b 32
Paauhau .... b 12 1/2 b 20
a—Ask, b—Bid.

"Two of the stocks show a gain of 100 per cent or more, three range between 50 and 70 per cent, while one gained only 28 per cent. Meantime, the price of the commodity has increased about 65 per cent, but this furnishes no basis for calculations from the fact that it costs no more to produce 5-cent sugar than 3-cent sugar. Hence, the profits of the business have increased during the past year by several hundred per cent.

"It seems hardly possible that the prices of these stocks have discounted the 1915 prospects, and this is particularly true of Hutchinson, the market price of whose stock has not kept pace with the improved outlook for the industry."

A BIRD THAT DOES NOT SING.

Is like a rosebush that does not bloom. Neither the bird nor the bush is natural. The reason for the bloomless rosebush will probably be found in the soil from which it is nourished. The reason for the songless bird is the same. It will be found in its food. By a careful process of elimination and selection, the Philadelphia Bird Food Company has produced a perfect food for canaries. They have fittingly named this food

BIRD MANNA.

It is a food, a stimulant and a medicine. For the foundation of this wonderful food medicine the Philadelphia Bird Food Company is indebted to the canary breeders of the Harz mountains in Germany. Bird Manna, the bird in good health and as a natural result it expresses its health and happiness in the only way known to it—by warbling tuneful melodies.

You can buy Bird Manna of your druggist, or a package will be mailed to you for 15c in coin or stamps.

The Philadelphia Bird Food Company has for many years made a study of birds and their diseases and they have written a book about them. The Bird Fanciers' Handbook is a volume of 120 pages, amply illustrated, which will tell you how to feed your bird, how to preserve its health and how to make it a good warbler. This book will be mailed to you for 15c. The book and package of Bird Manna together will be mailed for 25c.

Note—Like other good things, Bird Manna has been imitated. The genuine is put up only in white metal caps with a red imprint of the trade-mark, "P. B. F. Co." The Philadelphia Bird Food Co., 400 North Third St., Philadelphia, Pa.—Adv.

MAUI MAKING PLANS TO ENTERTAIN CONGRESSMEN TO TOUR TERRITORY

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]

WAILUKU, April 11.—A brief but interesting meeting of the Maui Chamber of Commerce was held in the lower court room last week, though not largely attended, the meeting was a breezy one. The chief matter before the body was the report of the committee on the entertainment of the 150 members of the congressional party due here in May.

A tentative plan was to meet the members of the party at Lahaina on Thursday morning, serve breakfast under the banyan tree, and then by automobile reach Wailuku in time for lunch, after which the lao Valley and other points about Wailuku would be visited. That same evening a trip to Olinda would be made and early in the morning the summit of Haleakala be reached, the party returning in time for a luau in the early part of the afternoon. Those who did not care to go to the mountain would have an opportunity of visiting other points of interest on Maui. The boat would be taken that evening.

The possibility of Fernandez taking moving pictures of the congressional party while on Maui was referred to the committee in charge of the entertainment of the party while here.

The military bill passed by the house and referred to the senate came up for discussion by the members of the chamber of commerce. A few words were said in its favor, but the opinion was so strong against the bill and its passage that the Maui Chamber of Commerce went immediately on record as opposed to the bill, and it was voted to instruct the Maui delegation to use every effort to prevent the bill from becoming law.

The action of the chamber on Maui has generally met with a hearty approval here.

Two interesting decisions were reached in the March term of court closed last week on Friday. The cases that attracted most attention on Maui were those of the Kalua will and the Island Electric. In the former case the last will and testament of Mrs. Polly Kalua, who died in the early part of 1914, was the matter under discussion. The will was drawn by Mrs. Kalua and she bequeathed her property to the Wailuku Kaahumanu church and the Wailuku Union church upon the death of her husband, John W. Kalua. The property was to be held in trust by the Hawaiian Trust Company as long as her husband lived, and he was to have the full income from the same.

This will ex-Judge Kalua has been protesting, claiming that Mrs. Kalua signed a deed to him of all her property before her death and that the deed had not been found until after she died, and he had affixed his own signature after her death.

The case called for a considerable number of witnesses, and covered several days. M. F. Prosser of Honolulu appeared for the Hawaiian Trust, and Lorin Andrews and Eugene Murphy for J. W. Kalua. Judge Edging directed the verdict in favor of sustaining the will. The money value of the estate is said to be in the neighborhood of $10,000. It is rumored that the case will be appealed to the supreme court. If so, it will make the third time that the case has been in court, the first hearing having been under Judge Whitney in chambers.

In the case of the Island Electric, of Purdy vs. Honda, the Island Electric attempted to recover the sum of $200 from Honda. This was an appeal case from the lower court. Here again much interest was shown in the case, and it was on last Friday again decided in favor of the plaintiff, but he had to bear the costs of court, so the total amount received would be only $146.

GERMANS COMPLAIN OF TREATMENT GIVEN THEM BY ALLIED NATIONS

Under the signature of A. Lohmann, president of the Bremen Chamber of Commerce, the following statement for Germany has been sent to Germans in Honolulu:

"The fundamental principle in every war has been up to the present time, to combat only the armies of the enemy and leave the civil population and their private property within war waging countries untouched.

"Same as at the outbreak of the Russo-Japanese war, the Japanese government declared, when they joined in the present conflict, that they would recognize the universal law, whereby the war did not affect peaceful citizens of war waging countries, nor would they entertain hostile feelings towards the subjects of the German Empire, who happened to be living in Japan; they announced that German citizens could remain in Japan unmolested; new arrivals would be welcome; their stay in Japan would be free from restraint of any kind; life, honor and property would be protected according to law and Japanese courts at law were open to them.

"Great Britain took up a position directly opposite to this universally conceded law, carried out by Japan:

"1. Immediately following the declaration of war all male subjects of Germany and Austria-Hungary, between the ages of 17 and 55 living in England and the British crown colonies with the exception of the self-governing colonies of Australia, Canada and New Zealand, were placed into concentration camps.

"2. German and Austrian firms were prohibited from filling their old contracts and making new ones. Businessmen under 55 years of age were forced to turn their affairs over to British or neutral clerks. In a few instances members of large firms were permitted to liquidate their affairs personally, after having given their word of honor not to deal with Germany directly or indirectly.

"3. The incredible news reached

CITIZENS MUCH INTERESTED IN PLANS FOR BEACH

The meeting of the health committee of the house Friday, in the office of its chairman, Mr. J. H. Coney, partook somewhat of the nature of a society function, there being several representatives present from the various bodies especially interested in the "City Beautiful."

The matter to be considered was the improvement of Waikiki beach, although the bill under discussion covers much more ground than that.

Mr. Forbes, the superintendent of public works, presented the points to be gained by the passage of the bill in a convincing manner, and others spoke in its favor, the only question raised being the danger of losing the sandy beach if the fresh water stream was diverted.

As the coral is only disintegrated by the action of fresh water, Mr. Forbes was confident this danger could be avoided by some arrangement like a weir.

Chairman Coney seemed a little disappointed that there was no voicing of opposition, the only man who is understood to oppose the bill being conspicuous by his absence.

A little smile was introduced into the meeting when the committeeman from Hilo suggested that tourists be sent over there to bathe, as the Hilo beach had no unsightly sewer.

Gentleman from the Promotion Committee and the Outrigger Club related sad instances of the unfortunate impression made on tourists by the unlovely state of the water in the lagoon between the Outrigger Club and the Moana hotel.

There were quite a number of ladies from the Outdoor Circle present, which was quite fitting, as they have the beauty of the city very near at heart.

As there were no objections raised there is every reason to hope that bill No. 288 will soon become a law. (Contributed—J. C. P.)

OSTEOPATHY

From its name, it might be inferred that Osteopathy deals only with the adjustments of the bones. This idea is erroneous. Muscles, ligaments and various organs are dealt with in regard to position, relation and size. Osteopathy is not Massage, but a drugless method of removing the cause of the disease by careful readjustment, thereby establishing structural harmony.
